TREK USA

Our Wheels Never Stop Turning

EVERY TREK BICYCLE IS EQUAL PARTS cutting edge technology and intense personal commitment. That's because we've always understood that pushing the envelope begins with pushing yourself.

Since 1976, we've built bike frames by hand in America to the industry's tightest tolerances and toughest standards.

We should know. We're the ones who keep moving the goal posts.

The payoff for you is the finest bicycles in the world...consistent, uncompromised quality backed by a lifetime warranty.

At Trek, we rethink and rebuild every bicycle, every year. Tweaking. Tuning. Testing. Always with an eye on the prize...exceptional performance, without exception, on every model.

Operating from a shared "function first" design philosophy, we apply our science and intuition from a seat-of-the-pants perspective. Your perspective! Because that's the only vantage point that matters in tackling the million and one details that can make one bike just a little lighter, a little faster, a little tougher and a little smarter than the rest.

Details that, in short, make it a Trek.

Trek is a line so technologically sophisticated, it makes shifting, steering and braking simple. Our meticulous attention to ergonomic design frees your mind and body to focus on what's essential...the sheer exhilaration of powering smoothly, rhythmically, efficiently ahead.

Regardless of your age, skill or experience level, the right bike can help you reach new physical and emotional heights.

And that's the real beauty of every Trek.

We took it to the limit so you can, too!

Sitting Still Is Not An Option

Inspired by competition-proven bicycle design, materials and componentry, Trek now brings an elevated level of technology to riders who demand peak performance:

OCV Carbon Fiber Technology

Our proprietary Optimum Compaction/Low Void manufacturing process tightly compresses carbon fiber and epoxy to produce the lightest, strongest, most durable production bicycle framesets in the world. Example: our new OCLV mountain bikes... 2.84 lbs. in an 18" frame. Trek OCLV carbon fiber composite has both a higher specific modulus (stiffness to weight ratio) and higher specific ultimate strength (strength per unit volume) than any other bicycle material!

Finite Element Analysis

Computer imaging routinely employed by the aerospace industry allows Trek engineers to model tube and lug configuration under load and stress conditions. These studies are used to specify material content sufficient to deliver optimal structural performance where needed without weight penalty.

Advanced Bonding Technology (ABT)

Lugged construction assures every joint on a Trek is as strong or stronger than its base tube material. Lugs are sleeves designed to perfectly and permanently align and support carbon fiber or aluminum main tubes and stays. The bonding agent is an aerospace adhesive that, once properly cured, makes Trek ABT frames failsafe even when subjected to 16 tons of pressure.

This grueling high-cycle fatigue test is just one example of the rigorous standards a Trek frame meets to earn our lifetime warranty.

Four New Suspension Entries

Fully redesigned, rider adjustable air/oil damped front shocks and oil damped T4C ("travel is four times compression") rear suspension deliver heavyduty impact absorption in a compact, lightweight package. Our all-new elastomer "Shock Wave" fork is designed to hook entry-level riders at a "try-it-you'll-like-it" price.

Integrated System Components

Trek-designed handlebars, stems, bar ends, grips, pedals, seatposts and saddles allow you to buy precisely the ride you want today with the option of quickly and cost-effectively customizing performance characteristics to better suit your needs tomorrow.

All New MetroTrack Commuter Line

Engineered specifically for the rigors of city cycling, the MetroTrack line is a 90's breed for 90's needs. Sporting fenders, light, reflectors, bell and rack, it comes fully outfitted to survive and thrive in the urban jungle.

Expanded Tandem Line

The heart of Trek's tandems is a direct lateral frame design that delivers optimal stiffness. To introduce the newest generation bicycles built for two, Trek and its dealers invite you to stop in and take advantage of their Tandem Test Ride Program.
